Livett, Morrison Address Local Mine Workers

Executive of District 18 U.M.W.A. Seek to Regain Coleman and Hillcrest Local Unions in Ranks of International Union. Pat Conroy of Drumheller Emphasizes Importance of Unity.

Executive officials and organizers of the United Mine Workers of America, District 18, addressed a mass meeting of Coleman mine workers in the community hall on Sunday evening, urging them to seek a referendum vote to test whether they will decide to re-affiliate with the international union, of which, prior to the organization of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, they were members.

Angus Morrison, secretary of District 18, asked how long would the men remain outside of the organization which included practically all mine workers in British Columbia and Alberta, from Vancouver Island to the farthest north mining camp in Alberta.

He noticed that many of his old friends were not at the meeting, and knew the reason, that the coal companies did not want them present. There may still be bitterness and men at each other's throats because of the splits during the past eleven years, but despite this, the U.M.W.A. was going ahead. In camps where it was organized there were improvements in conditions. It had been rumored that the U.M.W.A. would organize a strike. This was untrue. It was not the purpose of the union to interfere with trade conditions or marketing of coal, and there was no truth in the stories circulating that if Coleman affiliated coal orders now enjoyed would go to other towns.

The operators had their association for the protection of mutual interests, therefore was it not also good for the workers to have theirs? He urged the workers of Coleman to link their forces with their fellow-men. He referred to G. Kellock's ability as a mining executive and capable for the class he represents. But Coleman men must decide if they were to remain an isolated unit or affiliate with District 18. The international union was the strongest single union with 650,000 members, and District 18 has around the 7,000 mark.

He paid tribute to John L. Lewis and his efforts in behalf of Labor. The officers of District 18 came here sponsoring a cause in which there was no argument why men of Coleman should not again join with the organization they once belonged to. It was their duty to get into the organization to which they rightly belonged.

whom it has been suggested should represent the Province of Alberta at the Coronation ceremonies in London.

He first practiced law in Calgary, and from 1900 to 1935 was Prime Minister of Canada.

Robert Livett, president of District 18, stated it was a pleasure to again address a meeting in this hall. He recalled many meetings here, in which there were arguments when men did not see eye to eye, but he remembered also that when their interests were at the common cause. He first worked in this district 31 years ago, and many changes had been witnessed. For instance, the miner's rate was in those days $3.00 a day and $2.25 for laborers. The union was not very strong then, but they fought on and sought remedial legislation continuously since 1907. In 1920 the mining wage was $6.58 and other classes correspondingly increased. These benefits were not handed out on a silver platter. During that time there had been seventeen strikes in the district, but they were for the rights of the workers, and everything gained was dearly fought for.

The membership of the International union stood today at 650,000, a big increase from 350,000 three and a half years ago. Only Hillcrest and Coleman were not in District 18 affiliation, though in past years Coleman had been in the vanguard. There had been much mud thrown since the split in 1925 and it would take time to overcome old grudges. Last year a convention was held to bring about unity, and an amicable working basis had been reached, and territory was taken in which was not formerly in the district, Cumberland on Vancouver Island, and they hoped to have Nanaimo too.

Referring to the split whereby another organization had been set up, he stated the men had gone their way and the union had gone theirs, but it still shows progress and increase in membership today. Referring to a conference in 1922 in Calgary, in which he took part and at which G. Kellock was a member of the operators' committee, he stated there was not a fairer man representing the class he does, but following that conference a strike was called for which the (Livett) had been censured. Then a counter vote of censure was upheld by those who in the first place had opposed him, and the strike continued until the men went back to work on the previously existing rate for a given period.

Regarding the remarks made that District 18 sent much of the money collected in dues across the line, he stated it would be many years before this district paid back what had been

Pit Committees Confer on New Agreement

March 31 Expiry Date Present Agreement—Report to General Meeting of Miners Sunday.

On Monday several hours were spent by the committees of McGillivray and International mine workers with Mr. George Kellock, vice-president and general manager, concerning the new agreement to replace that expiring on March 31, after two years. It is understood that efforts are being made to have the renewal effective for one year only in place of two, which for a considerable time has been the rule.

No information has been given to The Journal concerning the conference, and the committees will report to a general meeting of the miners on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the community hall.

The committees were for International—W. Lees, W. Hayson, Harold Chamberlain, James Hadley; for McGillivray—Robert Morris (president of the local association), M. Stigler, secretary; W. Chapman, J. Griffiths.

ECHOES OF BOB EDWARDS' "EYE OPENER"

Some thought we had recently piloted our ship into dangerous waters. Far from it. The High River ads which were withdrawn, were immediately replaced by ads from Calgary. You cannot furnish the public with the truth if you keep one eye on your ads. Both eyes must be on your stuff. A newspaper that goes straight on, looking neither to right nor left, and relying on intrinsic merit to make it a good advertising medium, can have the advertising to take care of itself.

This was reprinted in the High River Times. It recalled an experience here during the days when the Reds were making every effort to control everything and everybody. One party came to The Journal and said if we didn't stop going after them, they would institute a boycott and get the merchants to advertise in a paper they themselves would start. Some measure of success attended their efforts along these lines in Blairmore, but we plainly told them we would die or go out of business money broke rather than bow-low to such a crowd. When a newspaper or any other propaganda medium hasn't got the heart of a lion or the resistance of a jellyfish, it is time it folded up.

ACCIDENT LEADS TO MAJOR INDUSTRY

A cow kicking over a lamp, they say, started the Chicago fire. A spider climbing a thread brought Bruce of Scotland victory. But these and many other like historical incidents pale before the story of the housewife whose carelessness founded one of the most important phases of the Canadian fish industry.

Away back in a Scottish village a housewife left a haddock hanging from the rafters of her cottage as she went out for the day. She had left it too near the peat fire, however, and when she returned the fish was all dried by the smoke from the fire. She decided to cook it anyway and the result was so appetizing that the news spread like wildfire and smoked fish became a national delicacy.

Today the popularity of smoked fish has spread everywhere and the apparite for this delicacy has founded Canadian organizations of international repute, some of which have been established for a century or more.

The Canadian climate has been found ideal for the production of this delicacy and other cured fish and today the Dominion holds a foremost place in world trade in the export of dried, smoked, and pickled fish.

Madrid Is Preparing To Meet A Fresh Insurgent Offensive

Madrid. The government high command issued orders to its troops on all sectors of the Madrid front to prepare to meet a fresh insurgent offensive expected to be the most severe of the civil war.

Madrid defence leaders have received reports the insurgents are massing large bodies of fresh troops for a new drive, intended either to force their way into the capital or complete its encirclement.

With the siege of the city four months old, insurgent lines have been drawn on all sectors of Madrid except the east and northeast. For several days government artillery has been shelling suspected concentration points for the enemy's fresh forces.

General Jose Miaja, government commander-in-chief for Madrid, said after a conference with his divisional commanders preparations were complete to repulse an attack in any sector.

The task of the besiegers was made more difficult when a government mine was exploded and blew up the only bridge the insurgents held for crossing the Manzanares river into the University City suburb, west of Madrid.

The main defence lines against any encirclement operations are in the Jarama river and El Pardo sectors, southeast and northwest of Madrid, respectively. The Jara front holds the approaches to the Valencia highway, still the capital's most important link with the rest of government-held Spain. The El Pardo front holds the enemy back from the roads to the Guadarrama front on the northwest and Guadalupe on the northeast.

Defences of the University City, Urena and Carabanchel sectors, where a direct blow against the city from the west would have to come, have been built up to formidable proportions by months of labor.

Military speculation centred mainly about the possibility the insurgent leader, General Francisco Franco, has large contingents of fresh foreign troops for striking at Madrid. The government press has insisted such troops are at General Franco's disposal, but there is no proof they have reached the Madrid front.

No Change In Title

Defender Of The Faith Will Remain In Coronation Oath

LONDON. No change has been made in the King's title of "Defender of the Faith."

Replying to a letter from Lionel Fowler, secretary of the Protestant Alliance, Prime Minister Baldwin's private secretary wrote:

"Changes made in the wording of the coronation oath were made as a result of discussion between His Majesty's governments in this country and in the dominions. There has been no change in the King's title of 'Defender of the Faith.'"

Fowler had written: "If it is the will of the other British governments that the King is only to maintain the Protestant reformed religion in Great Britain, then the people of this country will like to know that such consultations have taken place with the Dominion governments and that such decisions have been obtained from them."

For Larger Families

Program For Increasing Population Of Italy

Rome. The Fascist grand council approved a sweeping seven-point program for increasing the population of the Italian nation.

With Premier Mussolini presiding, the council devoted most of a session lasting four hours, 45 minutes to the problem of the declining birthrate and the need of more children for Italy's armies of the future. The program provides priority in employment and promotion shall be given to fathers of large families, because, said a government communique, "on large families in exceptional times for the fatherland will fall the heavier sacrifices and greater contributions of men."

A second important point is fixing salaries for families rather than for individuals, so men with families will receive larger salaries in proportion to the number of their children.

Other points of the program were announced to be:

Revision of laws already in effect to make them more effective in assuring stability of living conditions for large families.

Provision of loans to enable couples to marry, state assistance for dowries, insurance for young women.

"Formation of a national big families association.

A decision to revise provincial and municipal boundaries on the basis of a census to be taken in 1941, to "suppress provinces and municipalities in which ruralized and ageing populations have no further need for public institutions."

Establishment of a central organization for "the control and promotion of the regime's population policies."

The council announced these general lines of policy will be translated into legislation. It added:

"We solemnly remind all Fascists that the problem of population, being the problem of life and its continuation, is in reality the problem of the future of the nation. Life there is neither youth, nor military power, nor economic expansion, nor a secure future for the fatherland."

To Provide Reserves

Britain Will Station Territorial Troops In Northern Ireland

LONDON. The government has decided to station three companies of territorial troops in County Antrim, the first ever posted in Northern Ireland. The War Office said the move, in line with the new defence program, would provide anti-aircraft, engineers and air corps reserves.

A simultaneous campaign was under way to increase territorial troop recruiting. Enlistments now total 7,993 officers and 133,668 men, which is short of the strength authorized by 1,860 officers and 53,532 men.

Westerner Is Appointed

Halifax. Dr. Alan E. Cameron, professor of mining at the University of Alberta, has been appointed deputy minister of mines for Nova Scotia. Mines Minister Michael Dwyer announced.

Blamed For Mine Collapse

Management Of Moose River Gold Mine Held Responsible

Halifax. Management of the Moose River Gold Mine was held responsible for its collapse last April by a commission which investigated the cave-in and tabled its report in the Nova Scotia legislature.

Evidence taken by the commission showed one had been removed from pillars supporting the mine after it was reported in June, 1936, weakening the roof's support of certain sections of the mine, the report said.

The mine collapsed last April 12, imprisoning Herman Magill, Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding, all of Toronto. Dr. Robertson and Scadding were rescued 10 days later, but Magill, owner of the workings, was dead.

"While the placing of additional timber in the working places and in the Magill shaft might have afforded temporary relief," the report said in relation to the removal of natural supports from the mine, "it could only have delayed the collapse for a short time. We consider the structure of the strata left in this portion of the mine was of such a tender nature that it was not in condition to withstand further strain without giving way."

"Therefore the management must accept responsibility for the collapse in that they did not adopt adequate precautionary measures in their operation for safeguarding the property and the lives of the men who were employed there."

War From The Skies

Britain To Recruit Three Hundred Thousand Air Wardens

LONDON. Three hundred thousand "air raid wardens" are to be recruited. They will be part of Britain's precautions against war from the skies.

Air raid wardens will be recruited by local authorities. Their duty will be to advise their fellow citizens on officially recommended precautions against air raids, assist in the distribution of civilian respirators and in the event of war, play an active part in helping the public both during and after an air raid.

The wardens will operate from fixed posts and each will be responsible for a definite group of streets or a sector. During times of air raid each post will be manned by two or perhaps three wardens.

Soviet Executions

Hundreds Put To Death To Avenge The Assassination Of Kiroff

Moscow. Never in modern history has so much human blood been spilled in avenging the death of one man, Moscow observers believe, as in the sensational murder of Sergei Kiroff. When an assassin killed Kiroff at Leningrad, Dec. 1, 1934, he was not a very prominent figure.

Since then, however, 150 official executions have taken place as a direct outgrowth of the assassination. Jails hold 23 other persons confined for the maximum term of 10 years. Forty-nine more were banished to concentration camps and 25 exiled to Siberia.

And that is only the beginning of what some observers picture as a heavy cloud over the Soviet's future. Several hundred persons, perhaps several thousands, are under arrest and awaiting trial as the result of direct or indirect ramifications of Kiroff's death.

It is believed the vengeful blood purge since Kiroff's assassination was because Joseph Stalin had made him a favorite.

Kiroff, then 46, was head of the Communist party in Leningrad at the time of his killing. Also, he was a member of the polit-bureau, the inner circle of 10 men who control the Communist party.

United States Want Caribou

Importation Of Several Head From Canada Is Urged

St. Louis. Survival of caribou in the United States depends upon importation of several head from Canada, W. T. Cox, St. Paul, Minn., federal resettlement administrator for Great Lakes states, said at the wild life conference.

Cox, who has made a study of the species for 30 years, said only four caribou exist in the United States—last of a large herd which once ranged northwest, Minnesota.

Ten caribou have been offered by the Canadian government, Cox said, and "we hope to import them into Minnesota this spring."

Says Western Canada Exploited For Benefit Of Central Provinces

Ottawa.—Western Canada is being exploited for the benefit of the central provinces to a greater extent than the American colonies were exploited by Great Britain before the American revolution, W. A. Tucker, Liberal member for Rosthern, told the House of Commons as he spoke in the budget debate.

Mr. Tucker said he was tired of hearing eastern members complain of the money being spent by the federal government to help the western provinces. The whole fiscal policy of Canada was calculated to help central Canada at the expense of the west, he declared.

The tariff alone took $24,000,000 out of Saskatchewan in one year through enhanced prices whereas the entire revenue of the Saskatchewan government was only $14,000,000.

"From my place in this house," said Mr. Tucker, "I say that the American colonists before the rebellion of 1776 were not exploited by the mother country to anything like the extent western Canada is exploited for the benefit of central Canada."

Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons., York South) said every declaration of policy by a Conservative was treated as an election promise but Liberals forgot their own promises.

At Vancouver Prime Minister Mackenzie King had pledged himself to the democratization of industry, to give labor an equal share with capital in the formation of industry. The government had done nothing to carry out that promise.

Charles E. Johnston (S.C., Bow River) commended the government for continuing the policy of coal subventions, but criticized the wheat board operations. It was not generally known, Mr. Johnston said, that farmers never got top prices for their wheat. They must sell in the fall when prices are lowest and speculators reaped the benefits of high prices. If the government had continued board operations farmers would have participated certificates which would enable them to share in the price rise.

In the last few weeks, Mr. Johnston said, he had received numerous letters from the western provinces protesting alleged discrimination by the government against Alberta in financial matters. Such a feeling might result in "very serious consequences."

Mr. Tucker submitted Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett's budget amendment was moved with the knowledge it was not doing justice to the government whose measures had hardly time to become effective. He was glad, however, Labor Minister Hon. Norman Rogers had not expressed satisfaction with the employment situation but had said instead he was encouraged and confident.

He would not pretend, Mr. Tucker said, that he was in accord with all the policies of the government.

"Monetary policies," suggested Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Tucker agreed but asked Mr. Bennett if he, as a young man, had not been opposed to some policies of the government he supported but had continued loyal because he thought it the best government.

Mr. Bennett observed he had voted against his own party, and Mr.

Tucker replied it was possible he might some day do the same. No government could possibly do everything each of its supporters thought it should do.

There had been much talk of wheat, Mr. Tucker said, but those who were talking had been silent when the farmers were getting 21 cents a bushel. Now that they were getting $1.30 a bushel there was much shedding of "crocodile tears."

Again the member for Rosthern clashed with the Conservative leader when he discussed the textile industry. In 29 years Dominion Textiles had made an average of 65 per cent. on its investment in common shares, Mr. Tucker said. He suggested it would have been better if the tariff protection had been lowered. The industry would then have sold more, employed more workers and distributed more of the profits among the workers.

"The only condemnation I have for the budget," said Mr. Tucker, "is that it leaves far too much protection for those who are told will be forced to the wall."

Any industry that could not get along with a 30 per cent. tariff was an uneconomical industry and a burden on the country, he said.

Alberta Marketing Problems

Extension Of Co-operative Facilities Is Foreshadowed In Legislature

Edmonton.—Extension of co-operative marketing facilities in Alberta was foreshadowed in the legislature by Hon. W. N. Chan, minister of agriculture.

Marketing problems would receive more attention than in the past, the minister promised, saying it was his purpose "to promote the organization of marketing of farm commodities under as it is possible for a department to do, and insofar as it is possible to place the marketing of farm commodities in such a position that the farmers will secure a larger share of the consumers' dollar than has been the case up to the present time."

Dealing with drought conditions, Mr. Chan said the serious plight of the prairie in recent years "has driven home to the people of eastern Canada the fact that the problem is a national one." He said the co-operation of Alberta had been extended to the Dominion in rehabilitation work, particularly water conservation which he considered the only permanent solution.

Floral Emblem For Ontario

Toronto. William J. Cardhouse (Lib., York West) plans to introduce in the Ontario legislature a bill for making Ontario's floral emblem the flower known as the "trillium grandiflorum." It is popularly known as the "white trillium." Other provinces which have adopted a floral emblem are Alberta with the wild rose; Manitoba, the crocus; and Nova Scotia, the mayflower.

To Attend Coronation

LONDON. President Roosevelt has decided to send one of his sons to London to accompany the official United States delegation to the coronation, the social columnist of the London Evening News said.

Armament Plan To Place Britain In A Safer Position

LONDON. Winston Churchill, long a critic of what he termed the government's tardiness in disarmament, declared the five-year defence plan had strengthened the ministry's parliamentary position and promised, if resolutely pursued, to put the country in a far safer and more agreeable position than it has held since German rearmament began in earnest.

Churchill chided parliament for its complacency. Recalling frequent poor attendance, he said: "I cannot resist the conviction that we are moving through times as dangerous as any with which we have had to deal. I hope that even now the house will arouse itself, face its responsibilities and exercise its commanding power."

He expressed the opinion Britain could rely on the superiority of the future British navy in Europe so long as the "right feeling" of the United States was not withdrawn from the British empire. He expressed approval of Britain's close association with France.

"But," he warned the House of Commons during the debate on third reading of the defence loans bill, "we for the time being are not any longer entirely masters of our own fate. Much depends on what happens elsewhere in the world. After 1000 years of independence it is hard for the people to realize this ugly and unpleasant situation."

"The announcement of these prodigious sums has made a profound impression on the British people. It has been highly favorable to the government and the country. I think the government have placed themselves in a very favorable position against critics who, like myself, for a long time have been urging more active and timely measures." 2183

Canadian Railways Lose Heavily From Truck Competition

Ottawa.—Canadian railways' lost $28,000,000 a year attributable to competition from trucks and buses, Bernard Allen, Canadian National Railways economist, told the senate railways committee as it strove to reach a decision on the transport bill.

Trucks competed with railways "up to hauls of 1,000 and 2,000 miles," Mr. Allen said. He specified shipments of frozen fish from Winnipeg to New York city.

The gross yearly loss represented a little more than 16 per cent. of the total freight traffic and was from all highway traffic, provincial, inter-provincial and international.

He endorsed the clause of the transport bill which would give a federal body control over inter-provincial, Dominion and international highways traffic because he felt it would provide uniformity of regulation.

The bill would authorize a new board of transport commissioners, set up in place of the present board of railways commissioners, to regulate certain forms of rail, water and highway traffic.

Transport Minister C. D. Howe defended his bill and said its object was to "obtain stabilization of the transport industry in Canada in the public interest as well as of those engaged in transportation."

Striking back at critics who have indicted the bill before the committee during the past two weeks, the minister said objections were based chiefly on "misconceptions of the results which might arise from application of regulation in all forms of transport."

Steve Janostak left last week for Ossoyoos, near Penticton, B. C., to work on a fruit and vegetable farm. Though at times a world traveller, he also finds it agreeable to settle down to the peaceful occupation of plowing and planting.

The Java coffee shop is now in charge of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Phillips, formerly of Bow Island, who arrived last week. Mrs. Mann has gone to Natal to assist Mr. Northam in his new business opened there. The latter is negotiating a sale of the White Lunch here.

Mr. Lorne A. Campbell, president of McGillivray Creek and International companies, was here on Monday, on his return from eastern Canada, and left again on Tuesday morning's train for Nelson and Trail. He will return for the annual meetings of the companies later in the month.

James Ford, town and school district secretary, left on Sunday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Ford, for a brief vacation at Victoria, having been granted his holidays at this time owing to his health necessitating leave for a week or two. In his absence Miss Audrey Halliwell is attending to office enquiries.

S. G. Blaylock, vice-president and general manager of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Trail, cautioned employees against unwise speculation in mining and oil stocks. "Stock market manipulations never added any value to a company and what goes up must come down," he stated in a general letter to all employees.

Faithful Horses

Many people here know John Ferguson. He lives on his ranch in the shadow of the mountain known as "Sleeping Giant." His wife died several years ago, and his daughter lives in Hollywood with her husband and little son. John lives out there alone, and occasionally comes to town on his wagon drawn by "Wallace", a 25-year-old horse, and one whom he calls a youngster, aged 15 years. One often wonders how he gets home after dark, for automobiles travelling at 50 miles per hour are risks for a team and wagon to encounter. John says he just lets the horses use their sense, and it is remarkable how their instinct preserves themselves and John from harm. His only relaxation from cultivating the vegetables on his farm and doing the chores is to come in to dispose of some vegetables and do a little shopping. He might also have a glass or two of beer, for man likes a little sociability now and then. Just how long John and "Wallace" and his younger mate in harness will continue their trips to town no one can tell, but it surely does appear that an all-wise Providence must guide them home to the farm tucked away in the shadow of the mountains.

Following the showing of Mary of Scotland at the Palace, the writer on leaving the theatre remarked that it aroused interest, that has lain dormant, in the history of those days, when heads were chopped off on the block on Tower Hill, the exact spot being marked by a brass plate, and the axe and the block being on view among the relics in the Tower of London. But glimpses into the past were rudely shattered when Herb Snowden remarked it was the first time he knew of there being bagpipes in heaven. In the picture as Mary Stuart was walking to the scaffold, her lips moving in prayer, the music of the bagpipes could be faintly heard. The playing by Katherine Hepburn as Mary was exceptionally good, while a strong supporting cast added to the impressive effect of the recording of this stirring chapter of history.

J. S. D'APPOLONIA

GENERAL MANAGER

THE BUILDER
J. S. D'APPOLONIA

A noteworthy feature of Coleman's new high school building is that a local contractor, with local labor, except a few skilled artisans, in some of the trades not represented in Coleman, erected the building which is a model of up-to-date efficiency among the school buildings of Alberta.

Plans were designed by J. S. D'Appolonia, the work was supervised by his foreman, a young man who has grown up in the contracting business here (Orasio Celli), and the working crew consisted of local men employed here for several years.

The work was carried on during the winter months with very little delay through weather conditions, though they were particularly severe in January. It meant the distribution in wages of several thousand dollars to the advantage of men in the building trade who otherwise might have remained idle.

It would be appropriate to give a brief biographical sketch of Mr. D'Appolonia. A son of Sunny Italy, he commenced early in life working in the building trade, for he started at ten years of age working in Austria, spending six summers in field work and five winter seasons in office work, gaining a thorough tuition in all branches of construction work.

Being possessed of an adventurous spirit and looking for new worlds to conquer, at the age of 16 years he came to Coleman in 1907, and was employed by International Coal & Co., for two years, leaving that company to work for the new company just commencing operations in 1909, McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. Ltd. He was one of the first to be employed by that company, and relates some amusing experiences of early operations at the mine, before power appliances were installed and good old horse power kept the wheels turning.

In 1911 he returned to Italy, and for two years served in the famous Bersaglieri, of the Italian Army. Most of the time during his army service he was in Tripoli, northern Africa, where valuable experience was gained in road construction and building work.

But the call of Western Canada was too strong to withstand, and in December 1913 he returned to Coleman.

In 1916 he was married in Coleman to Miss Constance Piccini, and their family consists of two sons and three daughters, the oldest boy, Joe, at present studying at Calgary Technical Institute, with a view to following in his father's footsteps in the building trades. His daughter Olga is at present studying in a convent, and the younger boys are receiving a good training at home under their father's guidance.

For 20 years Mr. D'Appolonia has handled construction work for the local coal companies, and has contracted on many projects in the Pass towns of Alberta and British Columbia. Whether it is building an up-to-date school, bank buildings, (of which he contracted for nine for the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Alberta and Saskatchewan), laying sidewalks or installing waterworks systems, or electric transmission lines, he has handled all successfully, and has been very active in housebuilding in Coleman and the Pass towns.

The company of which he is general manager, Excel Builders' Supply Co., organized in 1935, has a fine building 112 feet frontage and 28 feet in depth, with yards adjoining 100 x 300 feet, carrying a large stock of lumber, while in addition painting, heating and plumbing supplies and "Everything That Goes Into a Building" is carried.

Perseverance, steady application to the tasks in hand, ambition to excel and dogged tenacity are qualities necessary to progress, and at 46 years of age, Mr. D'Appolonia's ambition to further progress is just as keen as when he came here on his first venture over 30 years ago. In Coleman he staked his faith, and he has been a builder not only for others but also as an enterprising citizen with progressive ideas, with a desire to do his part for the progress and well-being of the town he calls "Home."

School Open to Public

The new building will be open to the ratepayers on March 17-18-19-20, in order that they may have an opportunity to view the entire building. The trustees decided this at a meeting this week.

Transfer of desks and other equipment will be made during the Easter holidays from the old to the new school.

Appreciation Expressed By Contractor D'Appolonia

I appreciate the confidence placed in me by the district through their trustees, and also appreciate the co-operation of both the former and present board of trustees during the construction of the new High School.

Of the total amount spent for labor in this school, local labor received close to 95% and they have always co-operated to the best of their ability.

I take this occasion to thank my clientele both in Coleman and Crows Nest Pass for their support in the past and present and I am proud of the fact that since my beginning twenty years ago my business relations have always been characterized by harmony and good will.

FIRST CHAIRMAN OF COLEMAN S.D. THE LATE ALEX. CAMERON

The following story from records of the late Alex. Cameron will be read with interest by those who have seen the town progress in the 30 or more years since it was established.

"In 1904 he, with Frank G. Graham, organized the first school in Coleman, classes being held in the old mission hall, now a part of St. Paul's United church, Rev. R. A. Robinson, Anglican minister (now rector of Christ Church, Shelburne, N.S.) being in charge.

"In 1905 Coleman School District was organized, members of the board being Alex. Cameron, chairman, with Frank G. Graham and Ed. Holmes, trustees. Classes were held in the Bremner building (where Sentinel Motors is now established). Miss Nettie McIntyre was the first lady teacher appointed in charge."

It is of interest to note that Cameron school, West Coleman, was named in honor of Mr. Cameron, who had much to do with the financing of the project, and a fellow trustee at that time was one of the present trustees, William Fraser, who in referring to the work of Mr. Cameron, recently remarked that when they went out to borrow money to meet the cost of the building, they could have secured enough to build two schools.

Early History

The following interesting notes were taken from records compiled by the late Mrs. Frank G. Graham:

The Church of England mission hall, which was erected in the spring of 1905, was used for two months as a school room. Becoming too crowded, the upper flat of the Bremner building was secured. Coleman school district was officially set apart in March 1905. During the summer a citizens' committee put in a temporary water system, surface pipes conducting water from a short distance up the creek, which runs through the town. This was replaced by a permanent system before the winter. About the middle of April, 1905, an electric light system was installed; also telephone system.

In the fall a fine large school building was erected, as the village had entirely outgrown its school accommodation. Messrs. A. Cameron, F. G. Graham and Rev. R. A. Robinson, C. of E. minister, were the first school trustees. Miss Cameron succeeded Miss McIntyre. Again the school building was found inadequate, and another building was erected to accommodate the younger classes, with Mr. Manthorne as principal; Miss McNab assistant and Mrs. Jobbett primary teacher.

THE FIRST SCHOOL IN COLEMAN and Secretary of the First School Board.

By Rev. R. A. Robinson, Member

Things in the early part of the year 1904, when I arrived in Coleman, were unorganized in a general way. There was not even a Post Office, as the government had not accepted the proposed name for the town. I understood that this was chiefly because

Latest Advance in School Construction Embodied in This Fine New Building

THIRTY-FOUR YEARS ago Coleman was just coming into existence. The International Coal & Coke Co. began operations in 1903, with the opening of the new high school many of the early residents still living here, and those who have moved to other parts, will review the progress through the years, from the hamlet and village status to an incorporated town. In 1909 the opening of McGillivray added to the industrial life of the district.

When Coleman was just another dot on the map, Alberta was not yet a province, but was part of the Northwest Territories. It was in 1905 it assumed provincial status, and rapid strides have been made in the intervening years.

The first school trustees were fully alive to the value of educational facilities, as the reader will gather from the brief stories published in connection with the opening of the new high school. But leaders in community life must have co-operation if their objectives and ambitions are to materialize. This has been given, for in educational matters especially Coleman people have always been prompt to respond. True, the bulk of assessment for school purposes is borne by the companies established here, who have encouraged progressive methods in the schools; but also it is noticeable that the people have appreciated the advantages of good schools by supporting the school trustees past and present in their administrations.

Justifiable pride is evinced in the opening of the new high school building. It has six fine class rooms, and an auditorium with seating capacity for 200, with a spacious stage with necessary appurtenances. The photograph gives a fine impression of the exterior, while the interior conforms to the most up-to-date requirements. The ready response given to the board's invitation to Coleman people to subscribe to the loan of $13,000 to complete the contract price of $31,300 is the best evidence of their pride and confidence in Coleman.

APPRECIATION

The Journal appreciates the support of local and wholesale firms advertising in this issue commemorating the opening of the high school building. The firms who through Excel Builders Supply Co. have supplied materials in its construction readily supported our proposal to issue this special supplement, for which the publisher expresses his sincere thanks.

development of the International Co. at Coleman—from the early opening of the mine to the extension of the plant during the first two or three years. I believe it was a new idea to them to go up into a coal mine instead of down, and it was giving them information as to the wonderful coal wealth of Alberta.

It would be a very great pleasure to me if an opportunity arose to enable me to visit Coleman once more. That being improbable I can only express my pleasure in hearing of its progress and best wishes for all its citizens.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

As mayor of Coleman, and a resident of the Crows' Nest Pass since 1905, it has been my privilege to witness many changes. When Frank was the metropolis of the Pass, Coleman was coming into prominence, and it was in 1922 that I decided to cast in my lot with this progressive community. I have always felt that a share of municipal government should be undertaken by those capable of shouldering the responsibilities attaching to such, and in my experience as councillor and mayor I have found that the experience gained in local problems is of value in helping to make the community a better place in which to live.

I take this opportunity of congratulating the ratepayers on the achievement of the building of the new school whereby improved educational facilities are provided, and I trust that those boys and girls who will pass through its various classes will appreciate the fact that such facilities are not secured without some sacrifice and painstaking effort on the part of their parents and the ratepayers.

May the new building long continue to serve the purpose for which it has been built and the students receive instruction which will enable them as they grow older to assume the full duties of responsible citizenship.

GEORGE PATTINSON,
Mayor of Coleman.

Trustees for 1937

The trustees this year, to whom is entrusted the administration of the school district are George Hope, chairman, who has served two previous terms; W. Fraser, who also served a number of years ago; Neil Fleming, Peter Sharp, and R. M. Greenhalgh, who is completing a two-year term.

SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

Alex. M. Morrison

Though at present in California, Mr. Morrison, as one of those who have seen Coleman progress from the hamlet stage, takes a keen interest in community affairs. He sends his congratulations to the town and shares in the general feeling of pride that the opening of the new school occasions.

LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE

Mr. George Kellock, vice-president and general manager of Intrastional and McGillivray Coal Companies, addressing the people at the laying of the corner stone on Remembrance Day, November 11, 1936.

Valued Citizens

One of Coleman's early citizens and one of the first school trustees who has taken a keen interest in the erection of the new school building is

Frank G. Graham. To express his pleasure at its completion, last week he called in Contractor D'Appolonia and the editor of The Journal, just to have a chat over some of his reminiscences and to drink to the success of the new school. Always active in local affairs, he has seen a large number of children come and go through the local schools, and his interest is as keen as when he with the late Alex. Cameron were trustees. Mrs. Graham, who died in 1929, was also a valued worker in women's circles, and to her energy and enterprise is due the fine pews and choir stalls in St. Alban's church.

James Ford, Secretary-Treasurer

Trustees come and go, but the continuity of the work of the board is maintained by the faithful secretary, James Ford, who since 1912 has filled the position with general satisfaction to the ratepayers. He succeeded Percy Willmott that year, and since then has seen the following chairmen hold office:

Alex. Cameron (deceased), W. H. Hayson, Thos. Johnson (deceased), Herb Snowdon, James M. Allan, Arthur Reid, and the present chairman, George Hope.

Coming originally from England, where he was on the police force in Leeds, (the home of famous cutlery), he was employed from 1910 till 1911 in Bellevue mine, where he met with an accident which incapacitated him for some time. In the latter year he came to Coleman and was appointed town constable and tax collector. In 1912 he was appointed town clerk and in 1913 he was appointed secretary-treasurer of the school district.

Carrying out his duties with rigid impartiality, he has always carried the respect of his fellow citizens. He also has been commended by the auditors for the manner in which he has kept the records for the school.

Chairman 1935-36—Arthur Reid

It was during his term as chairman of the trustees that the contract was let for the new school building. On September 4, 1936, a ratepayers' meeting was held of which the following is a partial report:

Mr. Reid pointed out the reasons of the trustees for submitting the proposal for ratepayers' consideration. The cottage schools were in the first place intended as temporary schools, and added to the expense of operation, if they were retained, there would have to be a considerable amount spent in repairs and maintenance. In addition the board is paying $300 annually in rent for a one class room.

To meet the cost, approximately $20,000 of the board's surplus would be used, with $4,000 loaned to the town council and $10,000 met by private loan. He did not anticipate an increase in taxes for two years, and even if it did become necessary, it would only be increased two mills, bringing the taxes to the same level as two years ago, when a reduction was made.

Average revenue for the past three years has been $38,700; average expenditure for the same period $34,900, leaving an annual surplus of $3,800. This year (1936) at the end of August the board had to its credit $37,000, as a result of tax collections during July and August. This would be reduced by December 31 to $28,000 through salaries and operating costs. Last December (1935) the board had to its credit $29,000.

The new school would effect a saving of 50 per cent in heating costs, rental of the K. of P. hall and maintenance and repairs to the small buildings now in use. Tenders will be called for its erection, and in this connection he favored the contract being given to local contractors, provided prices were fair. He felt it would increase civic pride if the new building was financed and erected by local capital and labor.

Contract Awarded October 6, 1936
The following appeared in The Journal of October 8:

Following the special meeting of the trustees on Tuesday, October 6 at which were present A. Reid, chairman; R. M. Greenhalgh, George Hope, James Naylor and Frank H. Graham, the chairman made the following announcement:

Tenders were received from the following:
McDonald Bros., Calgary — $41,000.
Bennett & White Construction Co. — $35,460.

J. S. D'Appolonia, Coleman — $31,300.

H. W. Meech, well-known architect and former city commissioner of Lethbridge, has been appointed by the board to supervise construction of the building.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

PEOPLE are wondering how long this comic opera farce of government at Edmonton is to continue. Mr. Aberhart has frankly acknowledged his inability to fulfil his promises, and then asks a mere supposedly 30,000 members of Social Credit groups to say if he shall continue in office, ignoring the opinions of the remaining 130,000 voters whom he was elected to serve.

TOLERANCE there must be, and is, to give a government time to define its policies, but surely the past eighteen months demonstrates the inability of the Social Credit government to lead the people of Alberta out of the "wilderness" into which all previous provincial governments are stated by Mr. Aberhart to have led them. They are in a worse wilderness than ever.

HOW LONG would any ordinary business enterprise tolerate such bungling? Mr. Aberhart may read letters from supporters during his Sunday broadcasts, but surely he is not so foolish to believe that they express the voice of the majority. His political strategy is amateurish, and has long since passed even the point of good showmanship.

HIS proposed trip to England to represent Alberta at the Coronation is justly arousing protest, and one wonders at his audacity in proposing it when it is doubtful if he represents to-day the public opinion of Alberta. After telling people in eastern Canada that he knew of people in this province who were wearing gunny sacks and eating gophers, he has no hesitation in asking for an appropriation to enable him to indulge, with Mrs. Aberhart, a joy ride to England at the expense of the poverty stricken people of Alberta for whom he pleads deliverance from economic bondage.

PEOPLE who support him denounce those who criticize him. How can the voice of the people be expressed except by criticism and the exposure of such tactics as the premier has employed to fool the people?

PROSPERITY certificates have proved a flop, Social Credit houses prepared in anticipation of his plan being put into effect are not being used, taxes have increased and unemployment in Alberta has increased. Not a thing can be recorded as having improved the economic life of Alberta people since his party was elected in August 1935. These things must be plainly stated to bring home to the public the mess into which his policies have plunged Alberta. Savings Certificates payments are still suspended, with interest cut to one half of the pledges of the previous government. Then to cap it all, the premier proposes to go to the Coronation and on his return ask the faithful 30,000, if there are that many, to state if he shall remain in office. It is an insult to the majority of the electors of the province.

CAN A GOOD WORD be said for Mr. Aberhart as premier of Alberta. His camouflage of divine guidance is a travesty. Actions speak louder than words, and one has but to scan the record to find if any good has resulted from the world's only Social Credit government. Bunglers all! "Things can't be worse, give us power and we will eliminate poverty in the midst of plenty." How hollow it all seems now compared to the time prior to the election when Mr. Aberhart denounced the old parties as "crooked bowery politicians." How the chickens come to roost.

THIS PAPER has never toadied to any particular party. It has been intimidated and threatened with boycotts, but we know only by our own efforts and the desire to be honest with our readers and advertisers we can continue in business. It is recognized that only by compromise can government be carried on, and we always upheld the two party system, because under such the rights of democracy are best safeguarded. Mr. Aberhart's policy has been dictatorial, it is his nature to be so, as one can judge from his attitude, which will not be accepted by liberty-loving people. The sooner we are through with "starts, stops and reverses," the better it will be for the best province in the Dominion.

MAN is of a gregarious nature. He has the habit of assembling with others, just for company and to talk. Take a walk into local cafes or beer parlors and you'll always find groups there. There is no club for either young or adult people, consequently they gather wherever the opportunity offers. There has often been talk of a recreational club, but never has it got beyond the talk stage. The Canadian Legion made a start, but so many ex-service men are indifferent that those active in promotion of a club feel it is like dragging a ball and chain up the hill to arouse interest. The small amount from each man necessary to maintain a club is frittered away in much less useful ways.

FISH CHOWDER

1 1/2 Pounds of fresh fish (cod, haddock or other fish)
2 Cupfuls of diced potatoes
2 Cupfuls of diced carrots
2 Cupfuls of water
1/2 Pound of salt pork, diced
Medium onion, chopped
1 Tablespoonful of flour
2 Cupfuls of milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Remove the skin and bones from the fish and cut into small pieces. Cook the fish, the diced potatoes and the carrots in the water for 15 minutes. Fry the salt pork until crisp, remove the pieces and cook the onion in the fat until tender. Add the flour, stir until well blended and gradually add the milk, stirring until the mixture is smooth and thick. Combine this mixture with the fish and vegetables, season to taste with salt and pepper, simmer for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently and serve hot.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING RILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from any druggist, a package of Hammett and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and adds to the healing. It is tender spots. Hammett is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is so tender and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS PRAYING FOR HIS DISCIPLES

Golden text: That they may be one, even as we are one. John 17:22.
 Lesson: John 16:1-17:26.
 Devotional reading: John 17:1-11.

Explanations And Comments

Christ's Departure Expedition for His Disciples, 16:7-7. And now I go unto him that sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou? Peter had asked this question (13:36), and Thomas had implied it (14:5), but they were thinking of a separation only, and had failed to realize what his departure really meant. Now their hearts are filled with grief as the truth is made clear to them, and Jesus would arouse them out of themselves and their despair and turn their thoughts to himself.

"It is expedient for you that I go away," it is for your best interests. Jesus then told them. How could this be? How could it be best for them to lose his companionship? Because, "If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you."

The Farewell Prayer, 17:1-26. This seventeenth chapter of John gives Jesus' great intercessory prayer for himself, for his apostles, and for the world. It is often called "Christ's High-priestly Prayer," because in it he "consecrated himself to be priest and victim in the approaching sacrifice." Verses 1-5 are his words for himself; he has finished his task and he prays to be "glorified," that he may glorify the Father and thus give eternal life to his followers. Verses 6-19 are his prayer for his own who are in the world, his disciples whom he had kept and guarded, and now was to leave. In verses 20-26 he prays for all believers.

Lingeringly and lovingly in the presence of the Father, the Son speaks of the little circle of chosen followers in whom he has such wonderful confidence. His prayer for them is a prayer for the perfection of the instruments through whom he was to reach the world. He asks that they may be kept from evil, and that they may be sanctified, consecrated for service.

I pray not that thou shouldst take them from the world. The ordinary relations of life, with their duties and responsibilities, sorrows and joys, are the divinely appointed environment to develop character. The world is, as Browning says, "just the stuff to fry the soul's strength on." It was the school for Christian education in which Jesus would keep his disciples. "The man who has been fed with the 'bread of life' must remain 'in the world.' The Lord gives no contentment to the life of the ascetic. Our sanctification is not to be gained by withdrawal and retreat. Our Lord purposes a holiness which shall wear white robes in the streets, and keep itself chivalrous and stately in the common fellowships of men" (J. H. Jowett).

HE DARE NOT MOVE IN BED

Nights Were Torture Through Lumbago

Only those who have suffered from lumbago know how exceedingly painful it can be. And when they discover a remedy for this complaint, they are anxious to pass on the good news to other sufferers. Let this man tell you how Kruschen brought him relief—

"I had a bad attack of lumbago. When I got into bed I had to stay in that position—I could not move for pain. I didn't know what to take or what to do. I was advised to try Kruschen Salts and I am very grateful I did. After taking a few doses I felt relief, and after taking one large bottle, I am glad to say that my lumbago has entirely gone, and I have not had the slightest trace of it coming back."—G.A.V.

Kruschen is a combination of numerous mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular activity. They help to keep the bloodstream pure.

Governor-General's Tour

Will Go North This Summer Through The Barren Lands And MacKenzie River Valley

Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir is heading north this summer, through the Barren Lands and into the MacKenzie river valley to Aklaivik on the rim of the Arctic Circle, and part of his tour through the northwest will be made by aeroplane. The vice-regal party will be in Calgary for the stamped July 8 and 10. From there His Excellency will likely go for a week to the vicinity of Red Deer and Rocky Mountain House.

On July 21 Lord Tweedsmuir will leave Winnipeg for Aklaivik by boat arriving there about Aug. 6. Then he intends to fly to Herschel Island, 100 miles north of Aklaivik, and he will return to Edmonton by air.

From Edmonton, His Excellency will go to Burns Lake and trek through the Tweedsmuir National park to Bella Coola, B.C. It is likely he will take a steamer from Bella Coola to Prince Rupert and return to Eastern Canada from there, arriving in Ottawa the first week in September.

'Planes Haunted For Day

No airplane will be permitted to fly over London on Coronation Day. May 12, the air ministry warned aviators. The ban will be in effect for 24 hours, from midnight May 11 to midnight May 12. Flights will be prohibited within a radius of five miles from Buckingham Palace.

Gardening

The main object of pruning, whether it be rose bushes, fruit trees or flowering shrubs, is to open up the centre of the growth so that sunshine and air may penetrate freely and also, of course, to produce a symmetrical plant. Naturally any dead or weak growth should be removed and also branches that rub against each other.

Early March until the best time for this sort of work, but there are a few specific exceptions. Most of these are the early blooming shrubs, such as the Forsythia. These should be left until after blooming. Grapes must be pruned early in March to avoid excessive bleeding. Raspberries are pruned after the crop has been produced and then all the year-old canes should be removed, leaving only the new shoots.

The best arrangement for starting seed indoors is a hot-bed, though where only a few plants of each variety are required a shallow box in a sunny window will be sufficient. A hot-bed simply consists of an old window-sash set on a wooden frame about 18 inches high, which contains two inches of fine garden soil pressed down by the feet, slightly straw, horse manure or some other heat-producing material. In an open place and facing the South dig a pit of the same dimensions as the window-frame and about a foot deep. Into this put the manure. If frost prevents digging, simply pile on top of the ground. The layer of manure should be about 18 inches thick when to catch the full rays of the sun. At the first of the soil will heat rapidly, but in about three days it will have cooled to around 60 degrees which is the proper temperature.

The seed is planted in rows two inches apart, and the bed watered frequently. On warm days it will be necessary to ventilate by raising the window frame an inch or so. When the second set of leaves develop, thin. About three weeks before going outside, the seedlings are transplanted to a cold frame, which is the same as a hot-bed only without the heating manure. Here they are hardened thoroughly before being set out in their permanent quarters.

When started in the house the procedure is practically the same, only of course, no heating material is needed. Boxes about three inches deep are filled with a mixture of sand and light soil and placed in a bright window where, preferably, there is a double glass to prevent cold draughts at night.

Check On Pilots

United States To Experiment With Airline Safety Device

United States air commerce bureau officials reported they soon will begin experiments with one of the newest airline safety devices—a "mechanical eye" which will secretly record how pilots handle their planes.

The instrument, known as an "air log," is a cylindrical metal inch-long gadget fitted into planes to record speed, direction, altitude and other data during flight.

By studying the record, officials said, airline supervisors can tell much about how efficiently the pilot operated his plane and whether he observed all safety regulations and instructions.

Forty-shilling Day Observed In Churchyard At Surrey, England

Candlemas Day was the occasion of a curious ceremony in the churchyard at Wotton, Surrey, England. Under the will of William Crayke, who died over two centuries ago, eight boys of the district stood by his tomb, with one hand upon it, and repeated from memory the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' Creed. Those who made the citation without mistake each received £2. The anniversary, says the News of the Day, is known as Forty-shilling Day.

people's throats and asked them to fully consider the matter and decide by referendum vote if they would join with the U.M.W.A.

Pat Conroy of Drumbeller was the third speaker. Despite the various nationalities in miners' ranks, he did not appeal to their emotions, but to their judgment as intelligent men. The other locals of the U.M.W.A. in District 18 desired Coleman and Hillcrest to join with them. Unity can be used to advantage or abused. At times appeals had been made on the basis of unity, only to sow the seeds of disunity. The most regrettable thing that had happened as a result of disunity was what had been lost. The men themselves were responsible, for petty spites and jealousies prevented united action by their representatives. He referred to the attitude of delegates at various meetings, and stated there has been some benefits as a result of the convention held last May. There had been an average increase in all camps organized of $1.50. Unity of action must be more powerful than that of a purely local union, and miners in all countries were in the forefront of the battle for improved conditions for the working classes.

He urged Coleman to unite to assume their share of responsibility to improve conditions for their fellow-workers, and to join in the fight for social justice.

Max Stigler, secretary of Coleman Miners' Association, was chairman, and asked if there were any questions. None being put to the chair, Angus Morrison stated that he hoped they would not have the same experience as in former years, when news was carried to the mine managements before committees had a chance to see them. Never could they secure sufficient knowledge to accuse those guilty of tale-bearing, but you can't hang a man for thinking, and there was some plain thinking too in those days.

Coleman, he stated, would have been represented at the Unity convention last May had there been a referendum vote instead of a few attending an open meeting and voting against it. Coleman is the only home local in Alberta, and it is not the purpose of District 18 to open a local in opposition, but he did urge the men to demand a referendum vote so that every man would have the opportunity to vote. He referred to the men with whom he worked here years ago, when he was president of the local union, and he had no fear of the result if a referendum was taken. He also urged that in making a new working agreement, that it be for a period of one year only.

The meeting then adjourned.
